What Was Done in May?

Zold Rate Keeps Going Up

It seems that financially linking Zold assets to bitcoins in 2018 was a good idea. ZLD rate is growing together with the rate of BTC and is now over $2.20, thanks to the growth of Bitcoin, which is currently around $8,000.

Tech Audits

To help our potential clients better understand the value we can provide and less painfully migrate to the pay-by-result model of work and freelancers, we introduced a new product: Tech Audits. We already managed to sell a few audits and new requests are coming. We predict that many software teams and their CTOs/founders will be interested in independent technical reviews of their artifacts. Then, when a review is completed, it will be easier for them to move to technical trainings and then to fully integrating with Zerocracy.

GitHub Marketplace

We registered a few of our satellite applications, including Rultor and opdd at GitHub Marketplace, which makes them more visible for programmers and our potential customers. We are planning to register more of them there, including orsk, Wring, and others.
